

Meet Dr. Kuei-Tung aka “Dr. K”

Dr. Kuei-Tung hails from the twin island Republic of Trinidad and Tobago in the southern Caribbean. She left her home at the tender age of 17 to pursue a Bachelor’s of Science in Chemistry.

After graduating from the University of Florida (Go Gators), she then entered the Doctorate of Veterinary Medicine program at Tuskegee University. It was here she realized her true passion of internal medicine in small animals. After achieving the Outstanding Student Award sponsored by the American Animal Hospital Association and graduating from Tuskegee University, Dr. K was chosen to participate in a very exclusive small animal internship at Hollywood Animal Hospital in Southeast Florida.

Shortly after completing this intense internship program, Dr. K headed west and settled in the beautiful city of Naples. She has resided and worked in this tight knit community for four years, and recently she decided to take on the exciting challenge of Veterinary Practice Ownership with her husband, Matt and her “kids” at her side. Constantly cheering her on and helping support her new adventure are her 12-year-old turtle (a Red-Eared Slider), her 7-year-old Swiss Mountain Dog, and her 5-year-old Boxer. Supporting rescue groups is near and dear to Dr. K’s heart, as evidenced by the fact that both of her canine companions are rescues.

Dr. K’s passion is practicing quality medicine, providing the best care for her patients, and the best education for her clients. And Remember... Healthy Pets Make Happy Clients!
